

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Introduction YOKO IWAMA	1
PART I
1 Nuclear proliferation and conceptions of national interest: the US case, 1960–1967 WILLIAM BURR	8
2 After the hegemony of the “Atoms for Peace” programme: multilateral non-proliferation policy under the Nixon and Ford administrations SHINSUKE TOMOTSUGU	34
PART II
3 Britain, the deterrence/non-proliferation dilemma and the NPT JOHN BAYLIS	54
4 France’s relationship to the NATO defense strategy and the Western non-proliferation regime DOMINIQUE MONGIN	73
5 Problem solved? The German Nuclear Question and West Germany’s accession to the NPT (1967–1975) ANDREAS LUTSCH	93

- 6 Canada's affair with nuclear weapons: building, debating, acquiring, retiring 111
DON MUNTON

PART III

- 7 Japan's nuclear disarmament and non-proliferation diplomacy during the Cold War: the myth and reality of a nuclear bombed country 131
AKIRA KUROSAKI

- 8 The Japanese Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the decision to join the Non-Proliferation Treaty 151
YOKO IWAMA

- 9 In the shadow of China's bomb: nuclear consultation, commitment reconfirmation, and missile defence in the US-Japan alliance, 1962–1968 172
SHINGO YOSHIDA

- Conclusion 196
JOHN BAYLIS

- Index* 207